

What a remarkably detailed and impressive piece of work. You have drawn on a formidable range of sources to construct an illuminating account. It would have been interesting to hear your judgement on the dis relative importance of religion & ethnic factors <sup>and</sup> on the motives for the declaration of a state of emergency. A little more on the social structure and the socio-economic programmes of the respective national governments would have added a dimension. The passage on the emigre influence is all too brief. But this is a fine piece of research. My congratulations.

74

and thank you for the radio frequencies!